Alley and Blood appealed, and they each given a personal hearing by Board of Governors of the Stock hange last night. The proceedings were not made public, but notice of the on of the brokers followed tooth members and the firms they ent are among the eleven memers of the Exchange whose telephones ere taken out of the floor of the Exstange one night last June by order of the Committee of Arrangements. At that time it was said that these sussended members, as well as the nine others thus deprived of telephone serfee on the floor, were charged with laving had telephone or telegraph contion between the floor of the Conlidated Exchange or with other finanpial institutions, against the rules of the Stock Exchange.

The suspension of Alley and Blood b, however, the first disciplinary action on the part of the Board of Governors of the Exchange; which has the power to make such suspensions, in any the eleven cases.

Since the removal of the eleven tele-phones last June one of the instruments on the application of the firm concerned was replaced. Of the other eight some have gone out of business and sold their seats, and others are still doing business without the telephone connections, although it has been reported that in these latter cases there will be further restorations of the telephone privileges.

Secretary McClure, of the Exchange, said to-day that Alley and Blood had ded under a resolution adopted May 9, 1900, and incorporated in the tion which forbids members of graph connection on the floor with the re of other exchanges or financial institutions without the consent of the mittee of Arrangements.

Alley and Blood are veteran operators in Wall street and both stand high in the financial community.

Mr. Alley has been a member of the New York Stock Exchange since Feb. 12, 1878, and Mr. Blood bought his seat

Do You Want New Laces At Half or Less Than Half Usual?

There are many chances to buy just such pretty Laces as Fashion is finding much use for this Autumn—and to pay hardly as much as it cost to bring them to America. Of course, the lines are incomplete—but if you find just what you want, the fact that there are no more of the same sort to be had is rather an advantage than otherwise.
